

CSGA Players Club

The Club has two levels of participation:

- Participating Golf Clubs. These CSGA member clubs- private, privately owned public, and municipal golf courses have individually established playing privileges they will grant to Player's Club Members.
- Players Club Members. Are golfers currently holding a USGA handicap index from a CSGA member club issued either by the CSGA or MET Golf Associations.

Participating Golf Clubs

Each Participating Golf Club has prepared an authorized program with specific guidelines for public play. The guidelines include rates, times of the week available and methods for reserving a tee-time as well as other conditions it so decides.

Participating Golf Clubs will has the authority to remove any players from the course or grounds should there be an infraction of any rules.

Eligible Players Club Members

Eligible Players Club Members must recognize the privilege being granted by Participating Golf Clubs and are expected to conduct themselves accordingly.

The CSGA has endorsed a strict dress code:

- For women golf attire is expected and shorts must be Bermuda length. Tank tops are not allowed.
- For men shirts must have a collar or mock collar and be tucked in. T-shirts are not allowed and shorts must be Bermuda length. Denim shorts or trousers, and cargo shorts are not allowed. Hats and visors must be worn in the traditional manner.
- Participating Golf Clubs may add or revise restrictions to fit their club policies.

The CSGA Code of Conduct will apply and may be augmented by the club:

- Participants are reminded that you are guests. At all times appropriate golf etiquette is required and that any abuse or disrespect of fellow golfers, employees, or other persons in attendance are grounds for immediate removal from the program and denial of entry in future programs. Such abuse or disrespect may be verbal or physical or threat thereof and includes, but is not limited to, the use of vulgar or obscene language, as well as physical damage to property or equipment of any person set forth above or the hosting facility.